STATE CAPITAL NEWS

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—California is in no danger of having its $16,000,000 federal road allocation withdrawn, despite reports from Washington.

This assurance was given to Earl Lee Kelly, state director of public works, by Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads in a long distance telephone conversation.

California was mistakenly listed as being "dilatory" in starting its road program when actually more than $8,000,000 of the federal funds are contracted for.

As a part of its program to speed up the state highway program, awards totaling $363,429 were made this week, and bids were opened for other contracts amounting to approximately $600,000. The department's motto is "50,000 men at work by Christmas."

State officers are united in the belief that repeal of the 2½ per cent sales tax would be disastrous at this time. According to Rolland A Vandegrift, state director of finance and no warm friend of the tax, repeal would throw the state more than $120,000,000 in debt. Such a huge deficit would be difficult to wipe out no matter what tax was chosen to replace the sales levy. An immediate special session of the legislature would be necessary in event of repeal.

A. A. Brock, state director of agriculture, is planning a trip to Florida in an attempt to heal a "sore spot" between the two citrus-producing states. His program may pave the way for a modification of the California quarantine against Florida grapefruit, it is believed.

On occasion arrest is welcome. Francis Cochran, Governor Rolph's assistant secretary, recently drove through the new Ridge Route cut-off to Los Angeles. The road is not open to the public and Frank was stopped by the watchman on the south end. The watchman could not be convinced. So Cochran phoned the Los Angeles Sheriff's office. His car was released when officers arrested him. Frank's father is a deputy sheriff.

Governor Rolph has returned to his office in the capitol, but his work in the future must be on a modified scale. A bit thinner, but cheerful, Rolph now plans to spend only a few hours at work each day to permit him to recover fully from recent illness. Physicians have ordered a full rest each night, instead of his customary occasional "cat naps."

The state board of equalization has warned all merchants that returns on the sales tax must be made between October 1 and 15. Retailers are subject to a heavy penalty if the tax is not paid within the required time limit.

'WINGS' AUTHOR PENS ANOTHER AIR-WAR FILM

Fredric March and Cary Grant play the two leading roles in "The Eagle and The Hawk," the story of two wartime flyers whose hatred for each other made them both heroes, which will be shown at the Donner Theatre Saturday and Sunday night. Jack Oakie and Carole Lombard head the supporting cast.

"The Eagle and The Hawk" is from a story by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings." March and Grant are cast as a pilot and observer in the British air corps—March a skilled, reckless flyer; Grant a ruthless killer. Together in the air, they are an unbeatable team, and one enemy plane after the other is outmaneuvered by March's beautiful handling of his plane; brought down by Grant's deadly handling of his guns.

TRUCKEE LIONS CLUB CELEBRATES FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Dance Follows Birthday Dinner. One New Member Welcomed Into Club

The Truckee and Reno Lions, their ladies and guests, celebrated the first anniversary of the Truckee Lions Club last evening. From the moment President Bill Englehart Sr. called the meeting to order until the last dance there was never a dull moment.

The Clubroom in the California Restaurant was tastefully decorated in the Lions colors. A birthday cake with one candle adorned the speakers table. Paper hats, noise makers and serpentine predominated in the celebration. Song Leader Frank Gaiennie had the members singing practically all the songs in the Lions Song Book and materially aided in keeping the party peppy.

The "Three Girls Trio," consisting of Lovey Edmunds, Vivian Riggs and Charlotte Carrau scored a hit with their crooning of popular songs. Banjo and violin solos were given by Lyla Parr, who later appeared with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Englehart Sr. in instrumental numbers. An accordion solo was given by Al Fontana and Sky Pilot Willis delighted his audience with a vocal solo. Bill Englehart Jr. played several medleys.

The Program Committee, composed of Bill Englehart Sr., Tom Oliver, Ed Edmunds and Art Leitch, rendered (to tear apart) two songs dedicated to Peanney Loynd, the Tailtwister of the Club.

President Bill Englehart Sr. welcomed one new member into the Club, Chas. Swanson, and in a short talk outlined the principles of Lionism. He also reveiwed the growth and activities of the Club during the past year.

Deputy District Governor T. L. Larsen of Reno spoke on Lionism and congratulated the Truckee Club on the splendid progress made, which has placed it as one of the outstanding Lions Clubs. ## SALES TAX RETURNS MUST BE MADE BEFORE OCTOBER 15

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Retailers of Nevada county must be prepared to make returns on the first-quarter sales tax between October 1 and October 15, the state board of equalization warned today.

Under the tax law the reports of sales are due October 1, and delinquent after October 15. Penalties will be assessed against merchants who fail to make returns by the latter date together with payments covering 2½ per cent of all sales made since the law became effective August 1.

In order to facilitate the making out of returns, the board announced that all retailers subject to the tax may obtain aid by calling at the nearest branch office.

R. SCOTT COCHRANE ESTABLISHES GENERAL INSURANCE AGENCY

During the past summer months we have frequently seen in and around Truckee, Mr. R. Scott Cochrane, who has established a general insurance business in this region. Mr. Cochrane obtained his insurance experience in San Fracisco, where he resided for a number of years.

Three years ago he married Elaine Almquist, daughter of Axel Almquist, a well known Tahoeite.

Among the companies represented by Mr. Cochrane are included the American Motorists Insurance Co. of Chicago, the American General of Houston, Texas; the Camden American Surety Co.; the Century Insurance Co.; the Fulton Fire Insurance Co. of New York; the Safeguard Insurance Co. of New York and the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, and others.

It is learned from those close to the company that the American Motorists Insurance Co. has maintained an excellent investment record during the past years of depression. This casualty company writes automobile, personal accident, and other casualty lines and is equipped with a competent agency force in all of the principal states. Through an able claim force they have demonstrated their practice of making prompt and satisfactory claim settlements, and this feature has been a contributing cause of the rapid strides the company is making.

The Century Fire Insurance Co., among others, enjoys an enviable reputation in paying claims, and is fiancially sound and well managed.

The Prudential Insurance Co. of America is known to everyone as one of the largest life insurance companies in America.

Mr. Cochrane has established his residence in this region, having nearly completed his home above Emerald Bay, overlooking the entire lake region.

FOX USERS OF OLD LICENSE PLATES HIT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Russell J. Bevans, state registrar of motor vehicles, says motorists who used to evade paying license fees by using 2 year old plates will be disappointed next January.

California's motor vehicle department has had, for several years, the policy of using only combinations of orange and black and black on orange for the license plate colors. Thus, all plates of even-numbered years were alike in design, and all odd-numbered years were alike.

Bevans said the color scheme will be maintained, but next year 'California" will be at the top of the plate, instead of at the bottom, as in 1932. He said each year there will be changes in lettering arrangements to foil the "chiseling" motorists.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN ACT NO AID IN SAVING DELINQUENT HOMES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—California war veterans expecting the federal home loan act to aid in saving their delinquent homes, purchased through the state veterans welfare board, are headed for disappointment.

The opinion was given in response to a query from John P. Brennan, chairman of the veterans' board.

THE EDITORIAL CIRCUIT RIDER

By United Press

Will repeal of the 18th amendment mark the end of the nation's liquor problem? California editors apparently don't think so.

Unless proper control of the manufacture and sale of liquor is adopted, they say, we may still have the speakeasy flourishing, with its attendant evils.

"The faces of the American people are definitely set against the saloon," said the Salinas Index-Journal, "but the years of prohibition have created a new institution in the shape of the speakeasy, where people of both sexes congregate and drink. The elimination of this is not going to be done overnight. The reasonable drinker who enjoys liquor in one form or another will be content with the privilege to buy in packages and not consume the contents in the place where the purchase is made. But do not forget there are millions of people who are not inclined that way, and in that fact lies a definite problem."

Declaring for stringent control of liquor sales, the Vallejo Times-Herald asks: "Today, as the eighteenth amendment is passing, are the various states, counties, and municipalities prepared to meet the new conditions? Have they adopted proper regulations? Is the saloon, and all its attendant evils, definitely legislated out of future existence? We believe that the American people can be trusted to go farther along lines of true temperance after repeal than they did during the past fourteen years, PROVIDED the various legislative bodies of the land recognize some of the pitfalls and errors of pre-prohibition days and guard against them."

According to the Los Angeles Record, "it is not a bit too early to start this work. Unless all signs fail, the prohibition law has only a short time to live. The whole problem will then be turned back to the states, and it is essential that the states have the information which will enable them to make an intelligent choice of their course thereafter."

In the same vein, the San Francisco News remarks "it is important that the states lose as little time as possible in passing regulations, otherwise they will encourage the schemes of racketeers to seize more control. It is even more important that these laws should prevent the recurrence of the pre-prohibition evils and advance moderate, open and civilized habits among the people."

Commenting on the state liquor control act adopted at the November, 1932 election, the Long Beach Press-Telegraph states:

"Some Californians now are discovering for the first time that they voted to deprive their city and their county of jurisdiction over the liquor trade, while others are surprised to learn from a statement by the state board of equalization that the state law will forbid saloons or bars for the dispensing of alcoholic beverages. Prospective liquor dealers are warned that if they invest in saloon fixtures they will be wasting their money, for saloons are prohibited by the liquor control act."

Also, adds the Orange Daily News, "many communities which have legalized the sale of 3.2 per cent beer will object to the sale of hard liquor and will demand the right to control the matter in accord with local sentiment. The principle of local option was well established in this country before prohibition and it is unlikely that any legislature will refuse to grant the right to communities. Until such action is taken, however, it appears that liquor will be sold freely everywhere. That is certainly a situation which the people of California did not intend to create."

NRA PROGRAM WELL UNDER WAY

After only three months, during a period of usual summer lethargy, NRA shows this record of achievement. Its program has just got under way. There has passed one eighth of the 2-year emergency period. Yet, it is estimated that it has restored steady jobs to 3 millions. Already, in its initial stage, it has vastly improved working conditions and raised the basic pay of four times that number in stores, factories and mines. It has brought employers and their workers to the same council table for frank discussion of their problems, with a realization that they are mutual and especially that whatever the nature of the problems, they also concern the consuming public, upon which both management and labor depend.

NRA is actually stopping waste, not only in our business structure, wherein productions costs will be known to all, but also the waste of our long-neglected natural resources. The NRA program contemplates melting frozen credits and hitherto hard hearts. It is bringing back confidence to the extent that people are again buying merchandise with faith in the future and in themselves. Nearly 2 millions have notified relief agencies of their new independence. And NRA has only covered the first furlong.

But NRA has done infinitely more. In enlisting business men and their customers under the Blue Eagle, all determined to bring the country out of the depression, it has promoted a spirit of solidarity, local and national, the value of which will be incalculable for many years to come. As the President solemnly warned, "This Nation cannot subsist half boom and half broke." This fact the American people have come to realize to an extent unprecedented and incomparable in our history.

"The Play's the Thing" in Tibet

All Tibetans love a theatrical performance. Plays are performed during the summer months in the open air. The best actors have a fixed tour programme passing from place to place, and keeping the same fixtures for years on end. Where no one wealthy person invites the players, or Achhe Lhamo, as they are called, the more well-to-do residents subscribe the necessary expenses, and invite the common folk to view the performance free of charge. The play is usually presented in a sheltered garden, or willow grove, whose walls and branches break the force of the wind, while for shelter from the sun, a large awning is erected, the sides being left open to afford uninterrupted view to the audience. Close to the center supporting pole of this awning is set a low table with refreshment for the actors. The orchestra consisting only of drums and cymbals is placed on one side, members of the party taking it in turns to perform thereon when not engaged on the stage.

A play usually takes two or three days during which the actors are fed at the expense of their employers, who also provide the robes for the various characters. The actors' ordinary garb, by which they may always be distinguished, consist of a loose red serge jumper, tucked into a pair of voluminous breeches, over which hangs a fringe of yak-hair tassels supported by a waist-belt. When gyrating, these baggy trousers and the tassels fly out, giving an appearance of higher velocity to their twirling bodies. Their feet are shod in ordinary cloth or rawhide boots. When acting, a triangular black face-mask is invariably worn, its grotesque features being outlined by small white discs like pearl buttons, while a goatee beard and a sheep-skin wig put the finishing touches to their head-dress. The women are distinguished principally by their head-dress of an open paper fan worn over each ear. Each party usually consists of one, or at most two, families, from aged men and women to babes scarcely able to toddle.

The more wealthy among the spectators pitch small tents, along three sides of the square shaded by the awning, and in these, reclining at their ease on cushions and rugs, they watch the play, partake of refreshments, entertain their friends, and generally amuse themselves. Certain tents are set apart for the use of the ladies, who on these occasions enjoy the performance apart. The fourth side of the square is set aside for the poorer people, who watch the play without payment. At the conclusion of the drama, each of the actors and actresses is presented with a ceremonial scarf, and a present in cash or in kind.—David MacDonald, in "The Land of the Lama." ## Politically Speaking

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—The law of supply and demand has nothing to do with gubernatorial candidacies, and at no time in the history of the state has the potential supply been so great.

In glancing over the list it would appear that the Republicans are out after the Democratic toga of confusion.

For instance, it took Governor Rolph only a few minutes to jot down the names of 12 men who reportedly have their eyes on the capitol's corner office. And the governor has been sick and supposedly not in touch with things.

This is the governor's list with his own parenthetical afterthoughts:

Lt. Governor Frank F. Merriam, State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, (Johnson? I think I've heard before he was going to run'; Senator Herbert C. Jones (he sponsored the still act); Rev. Robert Shuler; Former Governor Friend W. Richardson; Former Governor C. C. Young; Congressman Bill Traeger; former Congressman Joe Crail; Major Walter Tuller (they tell me he's the only man who can save the Republican party); Mark Requa; Fred E. Stewart, member of the board of equalization (he's pretty busy with the sales tax, isn't he?)

Rolph, vigorously asserting there was no reason why he should not run, refused to add his name to the list. In answer to an asserting by Assemblyman Charles Dempster of Los Angeles that "Rolph was through in the south," the governor said he had "seen no indication I have lost the confidence of the people."

In the meantime actual campaign openings were few and far between. Senator Jones has done little since his formal announcement. Merriam is satisfied to make speeches on the intricacies of state government. Johnson is doing a lot of traveling, and an occasional news release indicates a "public relations counsel" in the background. Richardson is silent, but Harvey Toy of San Francisco, who was chairman of Friend's highway commission, is beating the tom-tom.

If agitation of sales tax repeal continues a live question it will prove an important political issue. But the very fact that its repeal would result in a deficit of some $120,000,000 for the state and probably necessitate a state ad valorem tax and a high income tax in all brackets is likely to prove discouraging. State officials seem to think the grumbling gradually will die out.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Give the Old Folks a Break by Giving Them Independence

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

OLD folks? Well, who are the old folks? Everyone is older than someone else. I imagine the man of twenty-five looks as old to the child of six as does the man of eighty to the one of fifty-five. I know when I went to school I always thought the teachers were old. I know now that my professors in college were fairly young men. I like to tell a bunch of youngsters that they are getting old just as fast as I am. They are sure to look resentful for a minute until they realize it is true. But where shall we start to count?

* * *

THE first 15 or 20 years of our lives the word we hear most frequently is "Don't" from the generation before us. Then after a brief period of what we had hoped would be independence we begin to hear that same word from the generation following us. All the "Don'ts" are supposed to teach us what is good for us, what we should avoid. No amount of experience or judgment on our part seems equal to sparing us these repeated injunctions..

* * *

WHEN the eldest child of the family marries, and especially when the first grandchild arrives, we begin to be old indeed. We probably behaved the same way to our own parents, but we find it difficult to get accustomed to being told what to wear, and what we should eat, and in what sort of weather we should remain indoors. In very frequent cases appeal is made to the family physician to "talk with Father" or "reason with Mother."

* * *

A PARTICUULAR source of contention is when the younger folks begin to suspect that the eyesight or hearing of the older ones is becoming defective. Then it is dangerous to leave home or to go anywhere unescorted. In discussions like this may often be found the real reasons for persons of mature years slipping away from home. They resent the constant inhibitions, and they have a right to.

* * *

AMONG the many tragic mistakes we make is the one of persuading parents to give up their home and go to live with a married son or daughter. It is usually done under the guise of "looking after them." Somehow, no amount of means or the best of intentions compensates the older ones for the loss of what seemed to be their dearest privilege, the position of honor and authority at the head of their own household.

* * *

ANOTHER difference of opinion concerns entertainment. My parents saw Joe Jefferson and Edwin Booth, DeWolff Hopper and Francis Wilson. They heard Lily Langtry and Nellie Melba. For dances, they knew the Virginia reel and the old-fashioned waltz. Perhaps they really don't enjoy the modern jazz and flicker and we have no right to call them fussy.

CARE OF THE NECK IS NEEDED IF YOU WOULD BE BEAUTIFUL

By JACQUELINE HUNT

NECKS are like Jonahs. They have a way of betraying their owners. Perhaps you have been going along quite gaily, pleased with yourself and proud of the fresh, young face that looks back at you from your mirror. "Years don't scare me!" you say and then one day your eyes drop a little and there is your neck like a spiteful little devil mocking at you. "I know your age, and I'm right here to tell it to the world.

MISS HUNT

Necks have a way of becoming old and lined before your face begins to lose its youthful bloom. So look carefully at your neck and if its texture is much in need of refining and there are deep lines, plan a corrective treatment twice a week for the next month or so. The longer the treatment the more beneficial it is, so if you can, allow an afternoon when you will not be interrupted or an evening when you can leave the oils on the neck overnight.

For the treatment you will need two one-yard strips of wide gauze bandage, some olive oil and a tube of toilet lanoline. Begin the treatment with the neck and shoulder massage with melted lanoline that I described for you in yesterday's column and then dip one of the pieces of gauze into an oil mixture made from melting a tablespoon each of olive oil and lanoline together in an enamel pan. Wind the oily piece of gauze around your neck, bandage fashion, and cover it with the clean strip to prevent the oil from getting on your clothes or sheets.

If you take the treatment on an afternoon you can also plan to take a soothing facial, shampoo your hair or give yourself a pedicure and manicure while your neck is getting its beauty treatment. Or you can leave the oily bandage in place and go about your housework, but it will be more beneficial if you can relax. Use at least a part of the time for a refreshing nap. Pull the window shades and cover your eyes with pads of cotton saturated in witch hazel or in warm water. You see no beauty treatment need benefit one part alone—it can do lovely things for all of you.

If you take the treatment at night, leave the oily gauze on until morning, then cleanse the skin thoroughly with soap and warm water and rinse in cool water. Be sure to wash your throat with upward strokes or you may undo some of the beneficial effects of the oil treatment.

You will be wise to include a few simple exercises in any neck beautifying program. The first "exercise" is to practice good posture. It will strengthen your throat muscles. And here is an exercise that is good both for the circulation and for strengthening your muscles. Sit erect with your chin tilted upward, drop the lower jaw and go through vigorous exaggerated chewing movements. Then repeat with the head tilted as far as you can to the right, then to the left and then with your head dropped forward on your chest. Repeat twenty-five times.

On Friday night a crowd of sixty or more persons gathered at the State Fish Hatchery Camp Grounds north of Tahoe City for the first community picnic supper of the season. The real incentive for the gathering was to honor those who made possible the recent memorable motor trip to Mt. Lassen. First on the honorary list was Bob Southers, leader of the expedition, who, altho absent in the flesh at the flickering fireside, was ever present in the spirit in the minds of his comrades. 'Twas whispered too, that never in all the years he has spent at the lake, had Bob enjoyed anything as much as he did that Lassen excursion!) Others to share the evening's spotlight were Carl Bechdolt and Bob Watson, who donated the use of the trucks, and the drivers, Martin and Gordon Spitzen Robert Cowell and William "Pop" Wathen, each of whom were called upon for a speech.

Dinner was served about 6:30 and was keenly enjoyed by all. Spanish beans, meat pies, scalloped potatoes meat loaves, tomale pies, with numerous other tasty viands completed the bill-of-fare with piping hot coffee and home made pies serving as dessert. Altho a little crisp the night was resplendent with a three quarter moon shining out over the lake, vying with the dancing lights of an enormous bon fire. After the repast the crowd gathered in a circle about the fire where a program of unusual merit, which included songs, speeches, stories and recitals, was enjoyed until a late hour. Side lights of the entertainment embraced a complete synopsis by Mrs. A. M. Henry of the recent trip which was illustrated by a large comic map, mounted on a frame, made by the grammar grade school children for the occasion Lillian Vernorn and Sarah Crone collaborated in baking and decorating a large ginger cake which vividly represented Mt. Lassen, the trucks and the scenery enroute This was highly acclaimed by the crowd and photographed by Lou Ehret, before being cut and passed around for sampling.

Another of these delightful gatherings will be staged on October 11th at the State Fish Hatchery Camp Grounds at 6:00 P. M. sharp All are invited and welcome! Come and bring the family! The only request is that the ladies get in touch with Miss Sarah Crone, phone Tavern 30W and ask just what article of food the committee in charge wishes you to bring.

UNCLAIMED CHECKS NUMBER 2,000 IN SACRAMENTO BANK

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—There's a lot of people in Sacramento who, apparently, don't need money.

Nearly a month ago H. W. Douglass, receiver of the closed California National bank, announced he was ready to distribute the initial dividend from the institution's assets. A total of 8,000 checks representing 20 per cent of the deposits, awaited the bank's customers.

To date, according to Douglass, there still remain some 2,000 unclaimed checks on file.

DEPRESSION HITS MOUNTAIN LIONS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—The depression also has hit at California's famed mountain lions!

Department of Resources Director Dan H. Blood reported 23 lion hides sent in for the bounty—$30 for females and $20 for males—during August.

The average for the month is about a dozen.

Blood reported 195 killed this year, or 25 more than the average for the preceding five years, and that despite the reports of hunters that the lion population has been decreasing in California.

The deparment of natural resources officials estimate each lion killed represents a saving of 50 or more deer yearly, plus the saving in stock life to cattlemen.

BURROS TOO SMART FOR DEER HUNTERS

KERNVILLE, Cal., October 5—(UP) — That old desert mystery, where do burros go during September, was believed to have been solved today.

According to Mojave desert residents, each September all burros not anchored down disappear for a few weeks. They drop from sight as though swallowed by the earth.

J. C. Howe, packer, trapper and lion hunter, who owns a large herd of the beasts, says the burros disappear because they are intelligent.

"Deer season is open in September," he said. "The burros know better than to stay around where they may be mistaken for deer."

MASS DISCONTINUED

Traveling Around America

THESE two men, the "Bride" and "King," are waiting for the tom toms and Carib chant that start the John Conoe Dance. This weird dance is performed during the Christmas and New Year's celebrations of the Caribs dwelling in Stann Creek, British Honduras—perhaps the most mysterious of Central American tribes.

The dancers are all men; half of them "brides" wearing the costume of women, and the other half "kings" in men's attire. The costume of the latter is particularly striking—white tennis shoes, black stockings, white coat with crossed bands that give it a slightly diplomatic air, knee-breeches with garters festooned in shells that clack like castanets, a mask, and, as the piece de resistance, a hat adorned Indian fashion with gorgeous feathers, plumes, and sparkling mirrors. The "bride's" costume is equally as spectacular and much the same except for a white dress and flowing veil. The ones shown here were photographed by a passenger on one of the weekly cruises operated between New York and California.

The dancers, followed by musicians and an itinerant audience, start at one end of the village, stopping at every house en route and putting on a performance wherever the residents are willing to part with 25 cents. The musicians use only one instrument, a drum made of hollow logs across which the skins of monkeys or peccaries have been stretched. They thump these drums with their hands, accompanying the beating with a monotonous Carib chant. When the music starts up, the audience forms a circle, and a bride and groom begin fantastic gyrations suggestive of ancient jungle dances. They twist, hop, shake, and wriggle until they are exhausted, then two more dancers begin. The relay continues until the host feels he has received his quarter's worth of entertainment.

VACUUM BOTTLE CUP REPLACES HUB CAP

MARYSVILLE, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Even vacuum bottles may be listed as automobile accessories!

Traveling over a sparsely settled section of Utah, Dr. E. W. Hanlon, San Francisco, lost a hub cap from his car, he reported here. The few service stations he encountered were unable to supply the missing part.

Then he remembered a vacumm bottle in his baggage. He tried the cup from the bottle as a hub cap. It fit perfectly.

ENTIRE FLOCK OF HENS STOLEN FROM RANCHER

OROVILLE, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Rapid turnover doesn't always produce a profit, in the opinion of Guy Kilkerson, Wyandotte district rancher.

One of Kilkerson's farming activities consists of poultry raising. Actual count at lockup time showed he had 1,100 laying hens, he told the sheriff.

When he visited the chickeyards next morning, Kilkerson said he found thieves had stolen the entire flock.

NORDEN NEWS

By C. W. KRAMER

Several deer hunting parties invaded each nook and corner of the territory adjacent to Norden Sunday but were unsuccessful in their quest for a buck. Several of the hunters saw deer but were in no position to bring home the "bacon" other than what their knapsacks contained.

---

John Thorburn, who was connected with B&B 108 of Tunnel Six for the past eight years in the construction of snowsheds, has taken a position with the Southern Pacific Company at Los Angeles and has left to accept the post. Enroute he planned to visit with friends in Oakland and San Francisco. A farewell dinner was tendered him by his friends of Norden on the eve of his departure.

---

John Day of Norden has moved to San Francisco to accept a position and he was relieved by Walter Ferguson of Sacramento who arrived this week to resume activities in B&B 108.

---

The following new faces have appeared on the Norden roster this week when William Weland, E. Fiandt, E. Tomlinson and D. W. Ballantyne of Sacramento relieved carpenters A. R. Moltz, M. D. Taylor A. H. Swain, Fred Wills and J. D Perixotto, who returned to their respective homes after spending the greater part of the summer here.

---

Kenneth Lyon of Norden, accompanied by his brother Darrell Lyon of the Sacramento Police Department, returned from a deer hunting trip which was spent in the Lava beds of Modoc County and after two weeks in tracking down deer they returned to their respective homes without having bagged any mule tail deer. "Ken" found more diversion in roping and dodging steers on his uncles ranch than tracking deer. He is now busily engaged in roping knowledge that he lost in keeping abreast of his class of Truckee High School and will soon be on par and sailing an even keel with his class, while his brother Darrell will soon be with his colleagues of the Sacramento Police Department in rounding up Sacramento racketeers and others duties connected therewith.

FENCES MUST BE BUILT AROUND JUNK YARDS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—"Getting the breaks" just isn't in the cards for the junkman.

Piles of ancient automobiles and other junk stacked high in several junkyards throughout the county failed to register with the board of supervisors from an aesthetic standpoint. Something should be done about it, they believed.

So an ordinance was introduced required all junk dealers to erect high board fences around their yards—ostensibly to keep rats which breed in the discarded material from scampering around the countryside.

SACK CONTAINS SAFE INSTEAD OF 'SPUDS'

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Officers refused to believe one small sack of potatoes could require all the effort Robert Hughes, 20, was putting forth to carry it.

Besides, they opined, the bulge didn't have the shape ordinarily attributed to "spuds." They decided an investigation wouldn't be out of order.

When opened, the sack was found to contain a small iron safe weighing 125 pounds, stolen from a meat market.

Special Session of Legislature Likely

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Avowedly unsympathetic with any present move to convoke a special session of the legislature, nevertheless Governor James Rolph, Jr., may be compelled to bring back the legislators to untangle various and sundry problems of state.

Quite naturally, the less the governor sees of the legislature, the better he'll like it. For this particular legislative body repudiated the chief executive as no other group of solons had done in the state's history.

Day by day, reasons for calling another special session are increasing. Summarized, to date, they are:

1. Just as soon the 18th amendment is repealed—if such comes to pass—hard liquor, wines and beer will be tax free insofar as the state is concerned. Even 3.2 beer will be exempt, for the simple reason there won't be any 3.2 beer. Thus the state would not only lose potential liquor revenue but also $750,000 annually in present beer taxes. That alone would be sufficient to convoke the legislature.

2. The budget is still between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 out of balance. Some believe it should be balanced; others maintain it should stay in the red.

3. Sales tax difficulties might necessitate a special session. Administrative problems of the new levy have piled up so fast that many are of the opinion it will require a legislature to revise the law and thus smooth out administrative obstacles. Also, don't forget there is still a sales tax repeal association and that the initiative movement against the measure might succeed.

4. If the courts hold State Controller Ray Riley is right in refusing to approve emergency fund diversions to certain state departments, it may be necessary to ask the legislature for additional funds Such agencies as social welfare, narcotics division, bureau of criminal indentification and others claim they must have more money or lose their efficiency and effectiveness.

Such legislature leaders as Assemblyman Lawrence Cobb, Los Angeles, declare the legislature wouldn't authorize another cent's state expenditure. Nor would it approve increased taxation.

"We'd probably come back and bear down on economy," Cobb predicted. "We only scratched the surface last time."

'SILENCE IS GOLDEN' IN THIS INSTANCE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—It wasn't at all difficult to convince Mrs. Elizabeth Kunz, local resident, that "silence is golden."

Two burly negroes approached the car in which Mrs. Kunz sat, conversing with a woman friend. "Hand over your money and jewels," ordered one of the thugs, "and keep your mouth shut."

Mrs. Kunz obeyed the latter admonition wholeheartedly—and saved two valuable rings she had placed in her mouth when she saw the men headed towards the machine.

TULARE, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Mrs. Fred C. Howe doesn't claim the championship, but she hasn't heard of many backyard products larger than the four tomatoes she raised. The four weighed 4 pounds 7 ounces and filled a fruit basket. The largest measured 1 foot, 4 inches in circumference.

Other cities rating high were Houston, Texas; Columbus, Ohio; Toledo, Ohio, and Denver, Colorado.

YOUNG PLACER MINER FINDS $1350 NUGGET

ALLEGHANY, Cal., October 5—There's still gold in them thar hills, and Les Calhoun, young placer miner, has what it takes to prove it.

Calhoun has a 44-ounce nugget worth at current gold prices something in excess of $1350. He dislodged it from the bed of the Kanaka Creek while panning gold with his father and brother.

Last spring Ben Johnson, another placer miner, worked the ground of the creek bed to within two feet of the spot where Calhoun found the nugget.

'WHITE COLLAR EMPLOYE' NOT AFFECTED BY POLITICAL CODE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Being classed as a "white collar" employee also has its drawbacks, in the opinion of many county office workers.

In an opinion to the division of labor statistics and law enforcement, Attorney General Webb ruled the political code section providing an 8-hour day for county employees applies only to laborers on public works projects.

Empoyees in assessors' office, or any other similar departments, Webb also ruled, are not entitled to overtime for overtime work.

New Racket Discovered

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—"Nipped in the bud" apparently should be the epitaph of a racket discovered by the state division of weights and measures.

During August the division inspectors found several gasoline service stations selling reclaimed crankcase oil as new motor oil. The service station operators paid for their trickery with $100 fines, the division reported.

State Highway Patrol To Check Headlights

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Ooctober 5—(UP) — Wall-eyed, cross-eyed and glaring headlights that temporarily blind approaching motorists will eventually be a thing of the past if the persistent campaign of the California Highway patrol bears fruit.

About one out of every two automobiles in the state carry headlights which fail to measure up to state requirements, according to E. Raymond Cato, chief of the highway patrol.

Because of this situation, Cato has undertaken a light correction drive extending into every county of the state.

During the seven months' period ending July 31, 498 motorists in Nevada county were stopped by highway patrolmen and ordered to fix their lights. Total for the state during the same interval was 257,339.

Cato said patrolmen stopped a large number of cars in Hollywood last May and discovered to their amazement that lights on 67 per cent of the cars were deficient.

Later on, he added another check was made at the same location. The light violations dropped down to 50 per cent.

"Incorrect lights only cause about one per cent of our accidents," Cato said. "But we all know the annoyance of meeting a car on a dark night whose lights blind you temporarily."

Motorists are not summoned into court. They are merely subjected to some straight talking at the hands of the patrolmen and ordered to correct their lights. They must also mail in cards to the state highway patrol office stating they have followed insructions.

Cato would not indicate why the old practice of prosecuting light violators had been abandoned. However, the United Press learned many magistrates throughout the state have a tendency to discourage such prosecutions.

STATE WINS WHEN PLAYERS LOSE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Even if the players lose, the state wins, was the philosophical attitude of state officials here as they accepted a $582 check from a Redondo Beach Japanese.

The Japanese operates a game known as "tango." The game was changed in such a way as to avoid laws against gambling, but in doing so came within the new sales tax law.

Edwin T. Keiser, Los Angeles tax administrator, explained that each winning at the game is rewarded with a package of cigarets, which the game operator promptly buys back—but nevertheless must pay 2½ per cent sales tax.

A man without a country is given a "Nansen Passport," issued by the League of Nations for that purpose.

AGRICULTURAL PRICES GAIN 19.6 PER CENT SINCE APRIL THIS YEAR

The general level of prices paid to California farmers for agricultural commodities in August, 1933, was 67.6 per cent of the average maintained during the period from July, 1910, to June, 1915, and represented a gain of 19.6 per cent from the low point reached in April of this year, according to C. B. White, manager of the local branch of the Bank of America.

The index of prices received by farmers in the entire territory of the United States in August 1933, was 71.6 per cent of the July, 1910-June 1915 average, a gain of 44.9 per cent over the low point in February, 1933.

"From 1910 to 1915, California farm prices were comparatively stable," Mr. White explained. "From 1915 to 1920 prices received for farm produce increased rapidly with prices in the United States as a whole preceding the rise in California farm prices.

"The peak for California farm prices was reached in March, 1920, when the index figure was 112 per cent higher than the 1910-1915 level. The United States index was highest in June, 1920, when the level was 132.6 per cent higher than the 1910-1915 average.

"During the next four years farm prices in California declined to a level about 40 per cent above the July 1910-June 1915 average. This level was maintained until 1929, when prices began to fall rapidly.

"In California, average farm prices in the year beginning July 1, 1932, were 34 per cent below the 1910-1915 level. In this same period, farm prices for the United States as a whole were 44 per cent below the 1910-1915 average.

"Farm prices in California tend to lag behind the United States prices in both upward and downward price movements. This is due principally to the character of commodities produced in the two areas. The U. S. index is weighted heavily with the staple products, such as wheat, cotton, corn, hogs and cattle. Staple food products are usually affected first in the general rise and fall of prices. The California index includes many specialty crops."

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read next Sunday, October 8, on the subject "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"

The Golden Text will be: "The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give." (Matthew 10:7, 8) Bible selections will include the following passage from John 1: 1, 3: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which will read as follows: "In the Gospel of John, it is declared that all things were made through the Word of God, 'and without Him (the logos, or word) was not anything made that was made.' Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make,—hence its unreality." (p. 525).

IF ASKED which meal of all the week is hardest to prepare, four out of every five women would probably answer, "Friday lunch." Most of you like to serve fish for Friday dinner, if for no other reason than that the markets are brimming with their fresh, silvery offerings on this day. But you do not like to overdo the matter by serving fish twice. When a hardy lunch is needed, however, you must serve something rich in proteins —and calories—especially if a hungry hubby comes home for lunch.

He will appreciate it and so will the other members of your family if you will make shellfish a luncheon "special" every Friday. Clams, scallops and oysters are plentiful and economical. Make use of all of them but begin with oysters and use them often since they have not been in season long enough to dull the appetties of enthusiasts.

Oysters are so healthful and nourishing and safe — with all the care exercised in their culture, packing and shipping—that even the younger children can eat and enjoy them. And today I have some inrtiguing oyster recipes that may be new to you. You needn't be shy about bringing them out when you are expecting a luncheon guest either since they are so good.

Oyster Chowder

You might keep the recipe for the oyster chowder on hand for quick reference some chilly evening when you want something that will just hit the spot. Drain the liquid from one quart of oysters and remove any particles of shell. Strain the liquid through a fine seive and add to one cup of water in the chowder kettle. Peel six potatoes and slice them very thin and add with the one sliced onion to the liquid. Boil them until quite tender, but not mushy. Make a white sauce from two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon flour and three cups of milk, added a little at a time. Put the oysters into this sauce and simmer for two or three minutes. Combine with the cooked potatoes, onion and liquid. Season to taste with salt and pepper and serve from a tureen with split pilot biscuit floating on the surface.

Oyster Appetizers

Oysters served in any of their interesting ways make nice appetizers for any dinner. You are probably familiar with the ever-popular oyster cocktail, so I'll give you a recipe for an appetizer that is more on the order of a canape. Take large oysters and season each one with salt and pepper then wrap in a thin slice of fat bacon and fasten with a toothpick. Heat a frying pan and put in the oysters. Cook on each side just long enough to brown and crisp the bacon. Make slices of toast, trim, butter and cut into quarters. Place one oyster on each small slice of toast and serve two or three to each person.

SALEM, Ore., October 5—(UP)—Whisky Hill is still the name of a little school district near here. Taxpayers voted 12 to 10 to keep the name in spite of is alcoholic associations.

More people are born between the hours of 2 and 5 A. M. than in any other corresponding period of the day. There is a difference of 40 per cent in the number born around the hours of 5 A. M. and 5 P. M.

MODESTO THANKFUL; COLD NIPS NUDISTS

MODESTO, Cal., October 5—(UP)—Only impending winter today prevented Knights Ferry residents from worrying about a nudist colony in their midst.

According to word received here, a group of city folks spend their week ends near Knights Ferry and recently started sun bathing. At first the women wore conventional bathing sutis. They then switched to skimpy two-piece affairs, with a void of skin between upper and nether portions. Next, an irrigation ditch tender came upon three women who wore just simply nothing.

However, village residents decided with relief this sort of thing won't go on much longer.
